DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

ONE BODY EXPRESSIVE OF THE WILL OF THE MAJORITY.

The Reorganization Given the Stamp of Approval by the Majority as it Always Has Had.

The Democratic State Convention in Harrisburg was not a divided body as for a long time it seemed it was going to be. All the regularly elected delegates met together to abide by the will of the majority. The Reorganization stood by their position taken more than a year ago that the vote in the last Gubernatorial election was a vote of lack of confidence in the old leaders, in the Guffey, Brennan, Donnelly, Ryan and Hall contingent and that this element must get down and out at the orders of the majority. The trouble in the party has been caused by the refusal of this element to obey the will of the majority. The reorganization has had a majority every time and at the convention last week this majority controlled when a showdown was made by a vote of 110 to 73.

Adams county stood staunchly by the reorganization. The Democrats of this county accepted the result of the election of 1910 as orders that confidence in the Old Guard had been forfeited and in the meeting of the State Central Committee last year Adams county led the way for reorganization when the test vote stood 41 to 40. The position of Adams was approved of by the Democratic County Committee and all Democrats in the county generally and there was no issue in this county on this question at the recent primary. The State delegates, W. F. Gilliland and Grover C. Myers announced openly that they stood for reorganization, ratification of the work of the McCormick Committee, for Palmer for National Committeeman. Gurthrie for State Chairman, and Woodrow Wilson for President.

Notwithstanding the position of the delegates from Adams they were made the subject of one of the dirtiest tricks ever attempted to be perpetrated upon our county and that by the most disreputable element in the party in York county. The Adams delegates not only thwarted the game attempted to be played upon them but helped to split up the York delegation so that when the vote was taken four of the eleven delegates in York county stood for reorganization.

This attempted trick in York was engineered by Lemuel Love and Thomas Heller. They called a meeting in the office of Heller about ten days before the convention. This meeting was not attended by Grover C. Myers and two of the York delegates. W. F. Gilliland went to the meeting. Pretending the utmost friendship for Adams it was an apparent attempt to get the delegation of the two counties to agree to support Judge Gordon for National Committeeman instead of A. Mitchell Palmer. Mr. Gilliland suspecting the trick told them that unless Gordon was the choice of the reorganization he could not go their way.

The subsequent actions of Love and Heller clearly show that their purpose was to try to go to the Harrisburg convention and be able to say to the Old Guard that they could deliver the solid vote of Adams and York, and according to an accusation by Jere S. Black at Harrisburg, this proposed deal was tainted with the corruption of money.

The Adams county delegates realizing the trick attempted to be played upon them, made their plans carefully to thwart it so far as Adams was concerned. Messrs. Gilliland and Myers went to Harrisburg Monday morning and immediately went to reorganization headquarters and were among the first to sign the call for caucus of the Democratic reorganizers on Monday evening and refused to treat with the York people on any other ground than support of the reorganization. They would not go to the headquarters of the York contingent. Getting in touch with a Mr. Freed, one of the York delegates he was brought into the camp of the reorganization, later a Mr. Myers came the same way and on Tuesday two others. The Love and Heller gang would have coerced Adams with the threat that if Adams county wanted the eleven votes of York for Charles S. Duncan for one of the delegates at large they must go their way, and the position of the Adams delegates was that they would ask the reorganizers and not York county for this honor. Heller and Love were so chagrined over this turn of affairs that they would not permit any of their delegation to attend the caucus on Monday evening and the only York delegates there were Freed and Myers, the two that the Adams delegates had taken away from the Love and Heller crowd. The latter did not lift a finger for Mr. Duncan and when he was selected by the caucus they would not permit the solid York delegation to go to him.

Love even went further with his contemptible methods to bring the Adams county delegates to him on Tuesday, but again failed, for true Democrats have no use for him and his methods. Tuesday morning, Walter Ritter, chairman of the Old Guard had the tickets of admission to be given out to the theatre in which the convention was held and Love obtained all the tickets of the Adams county delegates from Mr. Ritter, evidently on theory that this trick would bring the Adams county delegates to him. The Adams delegates however followed the advice of Mr. Palmer. They went to Mr. Ritter and demanded their tickets and after some little trouble received them. The fighting blood of the Adams delegates had been aroused and it might not have fared well for the tricksters if they had been encountered at that time. When they found their game balked and the Adams delegates in their places in the theatre Love had his son slip the withheld package into their seats in the theatre.

Jere S. Black openly charged at the convention that $3,000 had been sent to York county to buy up the delegates for the Old Guard machine and Gordon. He made this declaration to Judge Gordon and said that public sentiment and honest men will not see the bargain carried out.

The Adams delegates were supported in their fight by the delegation from the county composed of Hon. Wm. A. Martin, Hon. James C. Cole, County Chairman S. Miley Miller, Charles S. Duncan, Wm. E. Kapp and Wm. Arch. McClean.

The reorganizers were so well pleased with the attitude of Adams that many of them expressed a desire to give the county some recognition and Chas. S. Duncan was put forward as a candidate for delegate at large and in the caucus Monday evening was one of the twelve selected for this honor. As the delegates arrived and came to reorganization headquarters they were asked to sign a call for a caucus and long before the hour selected 106 delegates had signed the call, showing a good majority for reorganization. This caucus was to take the place of the old way of the leaders naming the ticket. 104 delegates attended the caucus agreeing to support those who won out there in the convention. At the caucus the candidates for Congressmen-at-large, Delegates-at-large, Alternate Delegates-at-large, and Elector-at-large, were voted for and those obtaining a majority were next day presented to the convention and in every case were made the nominees of the party. This method kept all those who favored reorganization to one plan and prevented the disorganizers from breaking into their plans and was eminently fair for the will of the majority in the caucus became the will of the majority in the convention and this great principle of the party thus fairly and squarely ruled the situation.

The caucus was presided over by State Chairman Geo. W. Guthrie and Congressman Palmer explained the purpose of the caucus as follows:

"To explain my idea, I might say that this seems the only proper way of carrying out the purposes of the caucus. Nothing has ever been accomplished in history without absolute unanimity of effort. The struggle of the past year and one-half will be historic in the annals of our great party. The effort of the reorganizers was started in this very hall on March 2, 1911, and that effort to give the electors confidence in the party has been accomplished. We started in to make a thorough housecleaning and to remove the leaders in whom the voters had lost confidence. We are now on the very eve of the final struggle with the standard of battle proudly carried before us. No battle was ever won until the last enemy was driven from the field and no election won until the last vote was counted.

"The proposition now is that this movement shall not be robbed of the fruits of victory at the last moment. The people have decided what they want and it is our bounden duty to see that their will is caried out by our voting as a unit for the choice of this caucus. The nominations will be made without any effort to cram down any slate. If we go to the convention without any plan, it is possible for men to make nominations and to scatter the vote so that men with the minority can stultify the progress of our great fight.

"My idea is that any delegate who has any friend in his own county can nominate that man for any of the places to be filled without dictation from anyone. This caucus has no slate, we have no boss or set of bosses This convention will not be like another recent gathering here where bossism was transferred from one set of contractor bosses to another boss. It is not 'Westward the star of plunder makes its way.' There shall be the fullest, fairest and freest discussion."

In the caucus there were five nominations for Congressmen-at-large and four selected, the fifth one losing in the caucus being Milton H. Plank of Harrisburg. There were eighteen candidates for Delegates-at-large, the twelve highest winning. There was no contest for alternates and electors.

Tuesday morning the reorganizers met in the Chestnut Street Theatre and were called to order by State Chairman Guthrie and the call for the convention was read by State Secretary Blakslee and the Chairman explained the steps by which one convention had been agreed upon. The joint convention convened in the Majestic Theatre at 12 m. There was no flourish at the start. Chairmen Guthrie and Ritter occupied the seats on the stage side by side; Ritter called meeting to order; P. G. Meek read the call and William A. Glasgow Jr., of Philadelphia, was introduced as the agreed upon temporary chairman.

Chairman Glasgow met with a cordial reception as he took charge. He made a fine speech along Democratic lines, holding that to-day the Democratic party is in position to go on to a sweeping victory in the holy war for the redemption of the party. He called on Pennsylvania Democrats to do their share in the great work. Tribute was paid to the splendid work of the Democratic Congress and its record was pointed to with pride. A united Democratic party, he said would win. The Republican party is rent with a factional fight and its scandals are "a dainty dish to set before the king." Sarcastic reference was made to the Republican Senate listening without rebuke to the blasphemy in the parody of the Apostles' Creed. The speaker paid his respects to Penrose and Flinn, calling one as great a boss as the other. He called for a reaffirming of grand old Democratic doctrines and said that what we need is not more laws, but the honest carrying out of the laws we have; and what we ought to do is to turn the rascals out and have the laws administered by honest men. The Democrats should present a united front this fall, and it would be a glorious thing for all Pennsylvania to again wheel into line and take her place among Democratic States.

Upon roll call Palmer objected to the substitution of Charles P. Donnelly of Philadelphia as the delegate of a district in which Donnelly did not reside. The chair sustained Donnelly on ground that there was no specific rule of party on subject, and Palmer appealed from the Chair's decision and as the chairman was about to put the appeal Judge Gordon withdrew the substitution of Donnelly and Palmer saying that he was not to be outdone in magnanimity withdrew the appeal and later temporary Chairman Glasgow indicated the position of Donnelly by refusing to recognize him as a delegate

There was a long recess of the convention while the Committee on Credentials, Permanent Organization and Resolutions fought to a finish the true Democracy of the will of the majority. When the Committee on Permanent Resolutions reported as Permanent Chairman Joseph O'Brien of Scranton, a motion was made to substitute Judge James Gay Gordon of Philadelphia and the true strength of the majority was demonstrated in the vote of 110 for O'Brien and 73 for Gordon. After that vote the minority subsided and the convention quickly disposed of all business. The Committee on Credentials, refused to sustain the contest of Chas. P. Donnelly who was defeated at the primary.

Robert E. Cresswell of Johnstown was nominated by acclamation for Auditor General.

William H. Berry of Delaware county was nominated by acclamation for Sate Treasurer.

The nominees of the caucus of the evening before were then elected as follows:

N. R. White, Tioga.
M. D. Kittell, Cambria.
J. J. Buckley, Delaware.

In conclusion the platform adopted by the Committee on Resolutions was read by Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer and was unanimously adopted. The full platform will be found on the second page.

When it came to district electors York county under Love and Heller sought to gain some recognition from the delegates in the Adams-York Congressional district, but Adams would not agree to any one suggested by the Love-Heller end and won over enough of the York delegates so as to have a majority to name the district elector

L. M. Buehler's Unusual Offer.

"It isn't often that I have faith enough in the medicine put up by other people to be willing to offer to refund the money if it does not cure," said L. M. Buehler to a COMPILER man who dropped into his store, "but I am glad to sell Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia on that basis.

"The Dr. Howard Company in order to get a quick introductory sale, authorizes me to sell their regular fifty cent bottles at half-price, 25 cents, and, although I have sold a lot of it, and have guaranteed every package, not one has been brought back as unsatisfactory.

"I am still selling the specific at half-price, although I cannot tell how long I shall be able to do so, and anyone who is subject to constipation, sick headache, dizziness, liver trouble, indigestion or a general played out condition, ought to take advantage of this chance. You can tell your readers that if they are not satisfied with the specific that they can come right back to my store and I will cheerfully refund their money."

PLANS FOR 1913 CELEBRATION

WILL REQUIRE AN OUTLAY BY NATION OF $350,000.

Provision for Care of 40,000 Veterans and 20,000 Other Persons.

Secretary of War Stimson in a communication sent to the Senate last Saturday estimates that $358,662 will be required to carry out the plans for the semi-centennial celebration of the battle of Gettysburg, in July, 1913.

The estimate was asked for by a resolution introduced by Senator Oliver of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Joint Committee on the celebration that is acting with the Pennsylvania State Commission. Besides Senator Oliver, the Congressional Committee consists of Senator Heyburn of Idaho, Senator Swanson of Virginia, Representative Lafean of Pennsylvania, Representative Lamb of Virginia, and former Representative Tawney of Minnesota, who was born near Gettysburg.

Captains Hartman and Humphries were sent by Secretary of War Stimson to Gettysburg and spent the greater part of a week in gathering all facts upon which to base a report. The amount asked for by Secretary of War Stimson will be used in transporting, entertaining, feeding and housing the 40,000 veterans of the Blue and the Gray who are expected to attend the semi-centennial of the great battle, and the total of $358,662 is divided as follows, for quartermaster's department $246,492.97, subsistence department $112,169.87. An allowance has been made for the attendance of 20,000 additional persons on the presumption that many of the old soldiers will be accompanied by members of their families.

Secretary Stimson ordered an exhaustive investigation into the condition of the battlefield and the measures that would be necessary to provide proper transportation facilities, a water supply, sanitation, shelter and commissary.

To provide the necessary transportation facilities, Quartermaster General Aleshire, of the army recommends that the railroads between Harrisburg, York, Carlisle Junction and Gettysburg be joined to establish a provisional belt line under absolute control and management of a competent railroad man. By some such arrangement trains could be kept moving in one direction by a minimum headway of 12 minutes, thereby prevent danger of collisions and delays and insuring prompt handling of visitors during the day and leaving the lines free at night for transportation of supplies to the battlefield. Passengers would be concentrated at Harrisburg and the belt line would be by Reading tracks from Harrisburg to Gettysburg over the W. M. R. R. tracks from Gettysburg to York and from York over the Pennsylvania tracks back to Harrisburg.

A supplemental belt line would be possible by which all passengers from the South could be concentrated at Baltimore and Hagerstown and all trains move up the main line to High field and down the W. M. R. R. through Gettysburg to Emory Grove and from that point the W. M. R. R. is a double track line.

Secretary Stimson recommends that for the policing of the battlefield and protection of guests a detail of the State Constabulary be secured by the Commission to act under the direction of the city authorities of Gettysburg. It is advised that three full companies of regular troops be sent to Gettysburg to guard the large amount of Government property, tents, camp equipment, etc., that will be provided for the entertainment and comfort of the veterans and their families.

The arrangements for feeding the guests are on an immense scale. Rations for the veterans will be provided by 1600 cooks, and 130 bakers directed by a chief commissary, four assistants, 10 commissary sergeants and a half dozen clerks. The cooking will be done on 400 army ranges, and each veteran will be supplied with an enamel plate, a knife and fork and two spoons to be given to the veterans as souvenirs. The rations will cost in the neighborhood of $48,000.

The wages of the helpers is estimated at $27,930. The cost of the ration is placed at 30 cents a day for four days.

The cost of renting lands for the camp is reported at $3,096 an average rental per acre of $16. An adequate water supply is estimated at $43,920.

The cost of the "mess kits" is estimated at $10,000, and the kits will be given to the veterans as souvenirs. Fresh meat will be supplied daily by refrigerator cars. The tents, to be supplied from the regular army stores will number 5000, each accommodating eight persons. The tents will be provided with wooden floors, and nothing will be left undone to make the veterans comfortable. One field hospital and three infirmaries will be set up to take care of the sick or injured. A water supply of 600,000 gal. daily will be provided, and four wells will be drilled on the field to supplement the regular supply that can be obtained from Gettysburg.

This report of the Secretary of War is a complete vindication of the attitude of the COMPILER and the citizens of Gettysburg who have been working to make the great celebration a great success.

The Pennsylvania Commission were first invited by Dr. Singmaster to send a man here to study the situation. Such a man could have discovered the facts and reported them and the Pennsylvania Commission could have thus shown themselves equal to the situation. The facts the Secretary of War brought to light were the facts the town was calling attention to, they were the facts the Congressional Committee wanted and when the Pennsylvania Commission fell down in the matter of securing the same, the Secretary of War was compelled under direction of Congress to go after the original information

The Pennsylvania Commission has not only not done its part but it has sought to misrepresent the attitude of Gettysburg people. Within the past two weeks we have been informed that a member of the Commission has said that if the COMPILER and the people of the town supporting its attitude were not muzzled they would spoil the celebration. The fact is we have helped to save the celebration Our attitude was one of the things that resulted in the action of Congress and a study of the situation here and as a result we have a practical solution of many of the difficulties of the situation that will result in making the celebration a grand success and a credit to the town and thereby a credit that will be reflected upon the Pennsylvania Commission. The town wants to be helpful, wants to make the celebration as big and as successful as it can be made. We want the world to come here and leaving know a joy of having been here so that that joy will be a constant remembrance to bring them back again It is up to the Pennsylvania Commission to recognize our attitude, give us credit for the same and credit for the help we will have been to them to save and help the success of the celebration, a condition that calls for other sentiments than such as have been reported. Now let us all work together for the great event.

The next information needed is some exact information as to the numbers that may be here. Here is a suggestion. Get the government to consent to have inserted in the envelope containing the next pension vouchers a slip asking the question, if transportation be furnished by the respective states does the veteran propose to attend the celebration. If such a slip was furnished by the Pennsylvania Commission, it would not only be of incalculable benefit in arriving at numbers but be helpful in the issuing of transportation. If the answers indicate that the proposed provision of the Secretary of War will not be sufficient, then greater preparations can be made.

Engagement Announced.

At a tea given by Miss Martha Dickson on Saturday afternoon, the announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Mary Stair Swope to John DeKalb Keith, Esq. The Dickson home was beautifully decorated with dogwood blossoms, white lilacs and pink carnations The color scheme was delightfully carried out in the refreshments, and the announcement was made on two tiny pink hearts hidden under the coffee cups. Miss Swope is a daughter of Hon. and Mrs. S. McC. Swope of this place ,and a talented musician having studied music at Peabody Institute, Baltimore, and later in Paris, from which city she returned last fall. Mr Keith is the only son of Mrs. Helen Keith of town, a prominent member of the Adams County Bar, and an ex-District Attorney of this county.

Religious Census.

On last Wednesday evening a religious census of Gettysburg was taken by eighty enumerators. At six o'clock a short service was held in St. James church, conducted by Rev. W. B Hooper. The enumerators then made their canvass, each one taking a single square. The work was completed before eight o'clock when a rally was held in St. James Church, conducted by Rev. F. E. Taylor and I. L. Taylor leading the singing. The following was the result:

Church members	2014
Unchurched	464
Children in Sunday School	932
Children not in Sunday School.	719
Unbaptized children	122
Total population	4251

An increase of 221 over census of population in 1910.

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

ADOPTED BY THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

Full Text of Platform Reorganized Democracy Which Promises to Redeem Party and State.

"The Democrats of Pennsylvania in convention assembled in this time of industrial discontent and political unrest recall that these conditions have arisen during a long period of uninterrupted Republican rule. The marks and results of Republican rule are these.

"Destruction of representative government through the control of state and national legislatures by the agents of special interests and privileges; a loose and often dishonest constitutional interpretation that has turned the fundamental law into a barrier against proper regulation of corporate wealth; a so-called protective tariff, the duties of which have constantly mounted higher at the demand of the employer, for the sole benefit of a privileged class. The immense profits, thus guaranteed by the government, have resulted in swollen fortunes to the few, while the great industrial centers have been crowded with underpaid workers and the masses of the people have been heavily burdened with unjust taxation.

"Alarmed at last by the conditions which they have helped to bring about, the Republican party of Pennsylvania has issued a platform, which announces a program upon almost every subject of municipal, state and national government, every item of which presents an indictment against the course of the Republican party in state and nation, coupled with admissions of its failure to keep its promises contained in previous platform declarations.

"Three great issues overshadow all others. Representative government must be restored; the judiciary must be restricted to its proper sphere; the evils of the tariff system must be corrected. The Democratic House of Representatives has earned the gratitude and won the praise of the whole people by its action in meeting those issues.

"With the great body of the American people we share in the humiliation which all feel at the spectacle of the chief magistrate of our country lowering the dignity of his office by indulging in a petty personal quarrel with his predecessor and we declare that the use of this office by the present chief executive and the withholding of prosecutions against great corporate interests, as well as the same conduct by the former president in the successful effort to name his successor four years ago, furnish conclusive reason for an amendment to the constitution, making a president ineligible to succeed himself, as well as for legislation which will prevent any executive from employing the great power of his office to fasten upon the country a successor of his choosing.

"In our own State of Pennsylvania, the people will not readily forget how they were deceived by the promise of a public utilities bill with the shallow pretense of public hearings followed by an entire abandonment of the measure at the behest of large corporate interests; how the promise of good roads for the state, enacted into legislation was nullified by the failure to make appropriations to carry that legislation into effect; how the oft-repeated promise of an enlightened employers' liability act still remains unrealized. There has been but one Democratic state official in Pennsylvania in eighteen years and in his term as state treasurer he exposed the capitol corruption, aroused the conscience of the people of the state, and thus paved the way for recent reform victories in our larger cities.

"The Democratic party asks the suffrages of the citizens of Pennsylvania. It will enter into no obligation which it cannot meet. It pledges itself, as soon as it attains power in the state, to pass the necessary measures to make elections free and easily expressive of the popular will, and in particular to repeal those provisions of the law permitting the assistance of voters physically incapacitated.

"To provide for the effective control of all public utilities and to amend and reform the corporation laws of the state.

"To establish the present corrupt and extravagant system of state appropriations for charitable purposes which has been such a potent agency to coerce the legislature and to provide that hereafter no appropriations of state funds shall be made except for purely state controlled charities.

"To make a searching investigation into the abuses of the auditor general's office, to abolish all forms of favoritism therein, and to secure the equal assessment and collection of all state taxes.

"To amend the present corrupt practices act so that it shall effectually limit campaign expenses and prevent the improper use of money in elections.

"To secure the enactment of an adequate workman's compensation law.

"To provide for the establishment of state-wide primaries and such changes in the primary laws as will prevent the theft of the nominations of one party by the electors of another.

"To abolish the illegal and unjust system of classified cities and to provide a liberal plan of municipal home rule.

"To provide for an immediate referendum on the question granting to women the right of suffrage.

"To introduce economy and efficiency in the administrative departments of the state government and correct the evil resulting from the munipulation of offices and the unwarranted increase of salary.

"To extend the civil service law to the state and all its municipal divisions.

"We sympathize with the owners of homes, in the coal regions whose premises have been undermined by the coal companies, and who under the law have no redress for injury to the same and we pledge the support of the Democratic members of the next general assembly to remedy this condition.

"In view of the early completion of the Panama Canal and of the Erie Canal in the state of New York, the necessity for a connecting link between Lake Erie and the Ohio River in the states of Pennsylvania and Ohio becomes more and more apparent, and we pledge the party to any feasible constructive program looking to the association of the states of Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia and the counties affected, by such proposed waterway, and the national government, where by there would be an equitable distribution of cost, and whereby a plan would be prepared for the construction of the said canal, and its operation. And we recommend an appropriation from the state of Pennsylvania for a location survey.

"We pledge the party to the support of a pure food law that will assure to all consumers protection against adulterated and improperly branded articles of food, and we further declare in favor of a law that all packages be dated and plainly marked as to the weight or measure of the contents, and that all violations thereof be promptly prosecuted, and we further declare in favor of the abolition of all "fast" or false scales in the state of Pennsylvania.

"In a country of the area and population of the United States ordinary government is possible only through representation; but in order that the state and municipal legislatures shall remain truly representative, the Democratic party believes that the people should have the means to indicate their desire through the initiative and the power to control through the referendum.

"The true remedy for the removal of the barrier which some of the courts have erected against progressive legislation will be found in the assertion of the Democratic and American principles of the separation of judicial and legislative functions.

The recovery of business already discernible since the election of a Democratic House of Representatives shows that the people of the United State look forward with hopefulness and confidence to the now assured return of the Democratic party to power in every branch of the government. We firmly believe that this feeling will be increased and strengthened by the nomination for president of the man who is the choice of the Democrats of Pennsylvania—Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey. His great abilities and his broad Democratic sympathies preeminently fit him for this great office. His complete fulfillment as governor of the promises he made as a candidate, his absolute independence and freedom from the domination of special interests and privileges, furnish a certain indication that as president he will employ his constitutional authority to secure a free progressive and enlightened government.

"We pledge ourselves to the support of his candidacy and call upon our sister states to join us in effecting his nomination."

After completing the reading of the platform Mr. Palmer read the following three resolutions adopted by the resolutions committee.

"Resolved, the Democratic party of the state of Pennsylvania, in convention assembled, sincerely regrets the death of the Hon. William F. Harrity, and in recognition of his sterling character as a man, his devotion to the principles of his party and his great service to the state and nation, adopt this minute of respect to his memory.

"Resolved, that the delegates to the national convention this day elected be, and they are hereby instructed, to vote for the nomination of Woodrow Wilson for president, and to use all honorable means to accomplish his nomination as long as his name remains before the convention."

"Resolved, that this convention ratifies and approves the action of the state central committee in effecting the reorganization of the party by the election of George W. Guthrie, state chairman."

W. M. Extension Ready by June 1.

Officials of the Western Maryland railroad are daily awaiting notification of the date for the opening of the new Connellsville-Cumberland extension of the road, a distance of 87 miles through the Allegheny mountains. Company is expected to send out within the near future, an announcement covering he adjustments to the passenger and freight schedules which will have to undergo changes incidental to the opening of the line

The new extension is nearing completion and passenger service over the line will probably start about June 1. A force of 1,000 men is working night and day fastening the rails, filling in ballast, removing the landslides and the like. With the completion of this extension the Western Maryland will take its place as an independent trunk line. Big freight business will probably result as the route will shorten the distance by rail between Baltimore and Pittsburg, Cleveland and Chicago.

A few years ago it was expected that the Western Maryland would be the eastern outlet of the Wabash, then a projected ocean-to-ocean system That plan did not materialize, so that when the company was reorganized traffic arrangements were made with the New York Central lines to connect with the Pittsburg & Lake Erie at Connellsville. It remained only to build a line from Cumberland to Connellsville to get a short route between Baltimore and Pittsburg, and to open the rails of the Western Maryland in a position to compete with the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore & Ohio for traffic in that territory.

The problem was to build a low-grade line across the Alleghenies, through an exceedingly rough country and to obtain a location that would bring operating expenses down to a minimum and place the smallest burden of fixed charges on the road. This plan was conceived in 1906 by Benjamin F. Bush, then president of the road. Two years ago, before he retired from the Western Maryland, actual work on the plan had been started.

As officials of the road explain the outlook, it seems certain that the Western Maryland will meet with great expansion. Of course much depends on how the road meets competition of trunk lines which tap the rich coal and iron fields in the Pittsburgh region. Much also depends on facilities offered at tidewater terminals in Baltimore. This phase seems to have been given attention by the road as the Port Covington line is in operation and by this route heavy cargoes can be carried direct to the company's extensive coal terminals at Curtis Bay, near the Baltimore & Ohio coal terminals, where up-to-date facilities have been planned for leading steamers.

The longest bridge on the road is at Salisbury junction, where the viaduct is 1,975 feet long over the steel work It crosses a sloping meadow through which the Cassellman river flows and along which extends the Baltimore & Ohio, both of which are crossed. Big Savage tunnel, 3,300 feet long, bored through one of the highest ranges of the Allegheny mountains was completed this month and the 500 men who have worked for two years, day and night, broke camp and will engage in other work along the line.

Eat Properly and Avoid Indigestion.

Make it a point to eat properly. Most cases of indigestion are directly due to carelessness in this respect. Food should be taken regularly. The nearer your meals are scheduled by the clock the better. Late suppers should be avoided. Heavy food should not be taken late at night. Your digestion is least active during the later hours of the day and in the night.

Eat slowly and don't over eat. Chew each mouthful at least a dozen times. A half a meal eaten is better than a whole meal taken in haste. No matter how good the food, even if it be bread and butter, too much of it will cause indigestion.

Most people do not drink enough water. An adult should take at least two and one-half pints in twenty-four hours. Where possible drink water between meals. This is better than to drink great quantities of water during meals.

Wholesome food eaten leisurely and in moderation will maintain your health better than any kind of medicine, especially if your body is well irrigated by pure, fresh water.—Karl de Schweinitz, Executive Secretary, Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis.

DECIDE YOURSELF.

The Opportunity Is Here, Backed by Gettysburg Testimony.

Don't take our word for it.

Don't depend on a stranger's statement.

Read Gettysburg endorsement.

Read the statements of Gettysburg citizens.

And decide for yourself.

Here is one case of it:

Mrs. Charles Gilbert, 128 W. Middle St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "My health was poor as the result of disordered kidneys. I had but little appetite, could not sleep well and was subject to bachache and headaches. Often I had dizzy spells and chills and I always felt worse when I caught cold. One of my relatives finally advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a box at the Peaple's Drug Store. They proved to be all that was claimed for them, giving me prompt and permanent relief. I advise the use of this remedy in all cases of kidney complaint."

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

There is something wrong with the woman who prides herself on her lack of pride.

A thought one cannot express without profanity would be just as well suppressed.

If judges were mind readers a lot more lawyers would be fined for contempt of court.

Steer the average man up against a soda fountain and he'll complain that he isn't being treated right.

There's but one side to a question when a man and woman argue—and the woman always has a strangle hold on it.

Once there lived a woman who admitted that her husband was too good for her—but she's been dead several centuries.

Mrs. Margaret Hess and Tobias Hawn, both of near Harney, recently died.

TRY THIS

"RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner

IN YOUR OWN HOME 5 DAYS FREE

We want every woman in America to have the opportunity to try the "RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner in her own home. And to show our unbounded confidence in the machine, we've decided to send it out on 5 days free trial.

Use it as much as you like. Clean your carpets and rugs, your upholstery, curtains, walls, ceilings, mattresses, pillows, etc.

See for yourself how it makes everything as bright and new as the day it was bought. See how it cleans without raising a particle of dust, how it makes after dusting unnecessary. Watch it get the dirt from under heavy furniture, behind radiators and from other inaccessable places.

Try the nine special attachments which we furnish with every machine—the hair-drying tool, the tools for cleaning clothes, book-shelves, etc

"RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner

Compare this easy, pleasant method of cleaning with the disagreeable backaching drudgery of brooms, mops and dusters.

Put the machine in every test you can think of.

Then at the end of 5 days if you are willing to part with the machine simply notify us and we'll send for it

On the other hand if you wish to keep the machine you can pay for it on Easy Monthly Payments out of the actual money which the machine saves for you.

A liberal discount will be allowed those who pay cash

The experience of most purchasers is that the "RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner pays for itself in from twelve to thirty months.

It pays for itself, first, because it does away with the annual or semi-annual tear-ups called housecleaning (and housecleaning costs more than you think unless you have figured it out).

It pays for itself, second, because it doubles and trebles the life of floor coverings, bangings, furniture, wall paper, decorations, etc.

The "RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner weighs but 10 pounds It can easily be carried upstairs, downstairs, anywhere without the least fatigue. It is a truly portable cleaner.

A "RICHMOND" is built with a view to long durability and we cover it with the broadest possible guarantee. It is simple in construction. There is nothing to wear out. There are no gears, no diaphragms, no valves. Nothing to jiggle loose. To operate, simply attach to any electric lamp socket. Costs about one cent per hour to operate.

Surely you must see that the "RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner must give perfect service, perfect satisfaction, day after day, month after month, else we could not afford this offer

But don't take our word for it. Find out for yourself. Try a machine at our risk. If it doesn't make good—if it doesn't more than come up to your expectations, simply tell us to take it away. Could anything be more fair?

Remember it costs you nothing if you decide to keep the machine. All we ask is that $1 00 be deposited with us as evidence of good faith and to keep away triflers. The $1 00 will be refunded in case the machine is returned.

Prices Range from $40.00 to $85.00.

Mail the coupon and get full particulars. Do it now while you're thinking of it.

FISH DROPPED FROM CLOUDS

Originally Carried Aloft in Waterspout in Simple Explanation of Occurrence.

On Friday last a number of townspeople taking a walk on the slopes of Knockscalbert hill were surprised to see on the grass near Summerhill a large number of very small fishes, varying in length from 1 1-2 to 2 inches. The fish appeared to be the young of the herring.

In August, 1904, a shower of herring fry was experienced at the head of Longrow, but there was no doubt as to whence the miniature fish had come, for they fell from above on the hats and clothing of several men, and at the time a small black cloud of remarkable density was directly overhead.

The phenomenon of fish falling from the clouds is of more common occurrence than is generally supposed. It is undoubtedly due to some small fry of fishes having been lifted from the water and carried over dry land by what is popularly known as a waterspout.

Many cases are reported from abroad, and they are common in India. Last year Caithness reported a shower of small fishes, which were identified as herring fry, and there was also a similar occurrence in Roshire.

Frogs, insects and other living creatures have also been known to be thus transported through the air.—Campbelltown Courier.

GIRL NOT A NATURE STUDENT

She Meant Well, but Evidently Had a Lot to Learn About Care of Birds.

She was not a nature student, and when she saw a sparrow on the sidewalk, evidently too young to fly and too badly frightened even to hop, she did not know exactly what to do for it. She did not know how it had got there, where its parents were or what relief measures would be advisable All she could do, in her perplexity, was to keep the group of boys who had gathered around it from harming it and see if any of them could suggest a course of action, for she was well aware that in these days of nature study the veriest infant knows more about birds and their like than many an elder person.

Presently a big boy pushed through the group, looked at the bird kindly, then stopped and took it up. She was much relieved. "Will you take care of it?" she asked him. "Sure!" he responded, with inelegant emphasis. She was anxious that it should have the best of care, so she helpfully sugfully, "Better give it a little milk."

The boy stared. Then he grinned. Then he yelled. "Milk!" he roared. "Milk! ha! milk!" Then he streaked up the street, carrying the bird carefully in his hands and derisively ejaculating, "Milk!"

Her face flushed as she went on her way, and she was heard to murmur to herself, "Now, I wonder why he laughed? Very unmannerly, I'm sure."

Dangerous Rubber Bands.

Elastic bands are taboo in a certain large office in New York city, and employes are requested to dispense with the rubbers altogether or to keep them with great circumspection.

The reason for the precaution is that the bands are known to be hardly less slippery than the dreaded banana peel, with the same propensity for causing severe falls, especially in conjunction with the oiled wood floors of modern buildings.

A valued woman employe of the office in question had a severe fall owing to one of these mischief makers, which resulted in an injury to hips and spine which has incapacitated her for all active work for some time to come, if, indeed, it does not prove permanently crippling.

The Fighting Parson.

When the great-grandfather of the present Duke of Norfolk was engaged in any of his electioneering contests he was always attended by his chaplain, an athletic man and one who had made such good use of his hands on several occasions that he acquired the name of "The Fighting Parson." Mr. Dauncey, an eminent counsel, having once to examine him as a witness during a trial, asked "whether he was not the gentleman called 'The Fighting Parson.'" "I believe I am, sir," the divine replied; "but if you require any more positive proof and will do me the favor to step out of court, I will give it to you under my own hand." No further evidence was taken.—Baily's Magazine.

Why England Has No Flies.

The proof is that it has been done. Speaking rashly, there are no flies in England; at least, there are so few that the inhabitants do not think it worth while to screen their dwellings. The reason is the simplest—the tight little island is kept clean. Fifty years ago flies were a nuisance in England; though not the plague they are here, for no other really civilized country was ever quite so dirty as the United States of America. This nuisance is pretty completely abated. In 50 years England has been swept and garnished, and the flies have starved.—McClure's.

Her Last Word.

Him—You're wrong, and I've proved that you were wrong. But only a fool would argue with a woman.

Her—That's what I've been thinking.—Cleveland Leader.

IRISHMAN'S WORK IN CHINA

Late Sir Robert Hart Served Celestial Empire for Forty-Nine Years.

Irishmen have made careers for themselves in the most unlikely quarters throughout the whole period of modern history. While the distinction won by Irish noblemen in the service of Spain and France and the exploits of the Irish Brigade, who turned the day at the decisive battle of Fontenoy, are familiar to the world, and Irish names are found prominent among the soldiers and sea fighters and statesmen of the South American countries, it is not so well known that they have played their part in Russia and in eastern lands. Peter Lacy was a trusted lieutenant of Peter the Great and employed by him in constructing and training the Russian army. Some of the highest nobility in Russia today are of Irish descent, though their names are so Russianized as to give no hint of their origin.

This capacity of the Irishman for winning success in a foreign land received another notable illustration in the case of Sir Robert Hart, who died after serving China for forty-nine years. This keen little man had wonderful constructive ability. It might be objected that his family had been settled in Ireland for only a couple of hundred years. His ancestor was a Captain De Hardt, an officer who received a grant of land from William III. after the battle of Boyne. If 200 years do not nationalize a family then surely nationalization becomes impossible if a remote ancestor can be traced to another country.

COCHINEAL IS NEAR END

Soon to Become Thing of History Like Tyrian Purple of Antiquity.

It is the opinion of M. Leon Diguet, who has been studying the state of the cochineal industry in Mexico for some time, that before many years have passed cochineal scarlet will have become a thing of history only, like the Tyrian purple of antiquity. How many people are aware of the method of manufacture of this well-known dye. It is made from the dried female of the cochineal insects (coccus cacti). They are gathered by brushing the branches of the nopal cactus, on which the insects feed as soon as they begin to lay their eggs. They are then dessicated in ovens or killed with boiling water. It has been estimated that one pound of cochineal contains no fewer than 70,000 distinct insects. The color is brought out and fixed by chloride of tin. The Indians had cultivated the coccus cacti in pre-Columbian days, but the commercial possibilities of the insect seem to have been first realized by the Spaniards in 1518. It was introduced into Europe about 1523, and into India in 1795. The city of Oazaca was the center of the cochineal country in the days of Humboldt, but only a few plantations of the nopal cactus now remain—hence the fear that the dye will soon become a thing of the past, at any rate unless some other substance is found on which to feed the insects.

Believed Doctors Poisoners.

An extraordinary story of popular ignorance is reported from Apricena, a small town in the south of Italy. A tradesman was found to be suffering from gastric enteritis, and his doctor prescribed a mixture containing a proportion of morphia. The tradesman and his wife, however, decided to test the medicine by giving some of it to the cat. Of course, the mixture, while inocuous to an adult male, was fatal to the cat, and the report was at once spread that all the doctors in consequence of the increase in the population of Italy, had received orders from the government to introduce poisons into their prescriptions, in order that the poorer people might be got rid of. It was only with difficulty that the townspeople were calmed, and, in spite of all the official explanations, it seems evident that the doctors will be avoided by the poorer classes for some time to come.

That End Seat.

The season for the "end seat hog" is passed, so far as the trolley cars are concerned, but it is just beginning elsewhere—shall we say it, and we hate to say it, in the churches? Is it possible that there is where the warrant for the practice in the trolley comes from? People see it in the church, and of course justify it in the street car. It may not always be so, but insisting on holding an end seat and making others push by or climb over has a tinge of selfishness in it that looks very strange in a church whose gospel is unselfishness. There is no place where the Christian spirit shows up more finely than where one moves up and gives his brother or sister a choice seat. It is a way of "preferring one another" that the Scriptures speak of.—Columbus (Ohio) State Journal.

Bars Sawdust From River.

Sawdust contaminates water, according to the decision of a Virginia court in the case brought by residents along the banks of a stream to prevent the owners of a sawmill from dumping the dust from their mill into the water. The farmers testified that the sawdust gave the water such a color and offensive odor that the cattle could not drink it. On the strength of this testimony and other facts brought out the court ordered the sawmill people to make other disposition of their refuse.

Harrisburg Catholic Diocese.

The rapid growth of Catholicity in this territory is graphically illustrated in a complete and authentic history of the Diocese of Harrisburg contained in the new Catholic Encyclopedia. The general scope and influence of the ecclesiastical, educational and charitable work of the See is tellingly reviewed, and the statistics of the diocese treated at length. New information will be found in the following excerpts gleaned from its pages:

"The Diocese of Harrisburg, established in 1868, comprises the counties of Dauphin, Lebanon, Lancaster, York, Adams, Franklin, Perry, Cumberland, Juniata, Mifflin, Snyder, Northumberland, Union, Montour and Columbia, in the State of Pennsylvania, an area of 8,000 square miles. Lycoming and Center counties were also included within its original boundaries, but the two were taken from it in 1901, when the Diocese of Altoona was formed. In 1868 the boundaries of the Diocese of Philadelphia were curtailed for the third time by the creation of the Diocese of Harrisburg, Scranton and Wilmington. There were then within the Harrisburg limits a Catholic population estimated at 25,000, for whose care there were only a score or so of priests and about as many churches and chapels.

"As first bishop the Rev. Jeremiah F. Shanahan was consecrated July 12, 1868. He was the head of the preparatory seminary at Philadelphia when he was selected to govern the new diocese. he was born July 13, 1834, at Silver Lake, Pa., and ordained priest July 2, 1859. Progress was slow, as the people were poor. Bishop Shanahan died Sept. 24, 1886, at Harrisburg. Thomas McGovern, the second bishop, was born in 1832 at Swanlinbar, County Cavan, Ireland, and was ordained priest Dec. 27, 1861, at Philadelphia. He was consecrated at Harrisburg, ,,,,,,,,,, ETAOI NAOIIIII Harrisburg, March 11, 188, and died there July 25, 1898. After his death an administrator had charge of the diocese for nearly a year. At that time the churches had increased to fifty and the priests to fifty-five. John Walter Shanahan, third bishop, and a brother of the first incumbent of the See, was consecrated May 1, 1899. Born in Susquehanna county, Pa., in 1846, he was ordained Jan. 2, 1869, and when appointed bishop was superintendent of schools at Philadelphia.

"Statistics: Religious in the diocese include Franciscans and Fathers of the Holy Ghost; Sisters of Mercy, Sister-Servants of the Immaculate Heart, Sisters of St. Joseph, of the Blessed Sacrament, of Notre Dame, of the Holy Cross, of Charity (Emmitsburg, Md., and Mt. St. Vincent-on-Hudson), of Christian Charity, of the Third Order of St. Francis, O. M. C., Felician Sisters, O. S. F. Priests number 86 (6 regulars), ecclesiastical students 24, churches with resident priests 63, missions 15, parish schools 36, pupils 8,000, orphan asylums 2, inmates 110, hospitals 2, Catholic population 57,000. The mining regions have attracted Poles, Slavs, Austrians, Italians, Greeks and Lithuanians, for whom separate congregations are provided with priests of their own nationalities."

Rescue of Mrs. Becker.

Dr. L. B. Wolf, Secretary of Foreign Missionary Board of The General Synod Lutheran Church, tells that he met Mrs. Becker, a Lutheran missionary from India, returning on the ill-fated Titanic, at New York when the Carpathia docked with the Titanic's survivors. Mrs. Becker quietly told of her escape as follows:

When the shock came she went into the gangway and inquired of the steward the cause of confusion. She was told what happened and being assured of safety was told to retire. The three children were in bed. Twenty minutes later the steward called her and shouted "all hands on deck." She awakened the children and wanted to dress them but was told there was no time. She grasped shoes and stockings and in their night clothes rushed them on deck, where the two smaller children were put into life boat No. 18. She appealed to be placed in with them, and as the boat was being lowered, she was thrown in with the two small children. Ruth was left behind and placed into the next boat lowered and she found her on board the Carpathia. She says she saw the Titanic slowly sink bow first, and after the explosion disappear. She is resting at the home of Rev. Becker's brother at Benton Harbor, Mich Dr. Wolf cabled Rev. Becker of their escape.

Cutting Affray.

Anthony Reutt, a young foreigner, porter at Hotel Oxford, and James Moton, a colored boy aged about 12 years, employed by C. K. Yeager, Esq., of New Oxford, got into an altercation on the street in that place one day last week, and made their way into the store of D. F. Slentz, where they continued their tussel. Mr. Slentz ordered them to quit their racket and threatened to throw them out. This parted them for a few seconds, and young Reutt started for the door. A war of words, however, followed in which it is claimed Moton made some threats, and as Reutt again started towards him Moton darted behind the counter and seizing one of a number of butcher knives lying on a shelf, for sale, made a dive for Reutt, cutting through the latter's clothing and making a wound in the fleshy part of the left arm below the shoulder. The boys were then parted by employes of the store. Later young Moton was arrested by Constable Wm. E. Hensel, and taken before Squire Straley where the matter was amicably settled and the offender set free

One of the delightful incidents of the convention was the recognition given the Woman Suffrage advocates. During the intermission when the committees were at work short addresses were made by Miss Lida Stokes Adams, Mrs. Mabel C. Jones of Harrisburg, and Miss Mary T. Bakewell of Pittsburg, and the latter delivered such a strikingly witty address that she was rewarded with applause that amounted to a genuine ovation. To tell the plain truth, Miss Bakewell made the brightest and happiest speech that was made during the convention by any one. When the Commitee on Resolutions reported in favor of a woman suffrage amendment to be submitted to the voters, the woman suffrage advocates in one of the boxes arose and gave a cheer and the whole audience joined in with them.

Fan Who Gets N. A. Baseball Edition Starts Season Right.

Every baseball fan, whether rooter for big league team or member or partisan of minor league club, school or college, amateur or semi-professional team, should see The North American's annual baseball supplement, which appears next Sunday, May 19.

As usual, it mirrors the entire field. Everything is there.

The front and back pages are in color, superb illustrations. James C. Isaminger, The North American's baseball humorist, writes a story on superstitions of the ballplayers, which is admirably illustrated by Cartoonist Hoban.

Sporting Editor George M. Graham contributes an article on dramatic drives that have made ballplayers famous with a striking full page picture of "Home Run" Baker.

National, American and Tristate batting and fielding averages, with a page which gives the photograph of every player in the Tristate League, are other important features.

Ross E. Kauffman has covered the school and college field in detail, with many photographs and accounts of the work of various nines. The line-up of hundreds of state, minor league and independent clubs contains valuable information.

With something like 300 local line-ups in full, with names and addresses of managers and ages of players, the two pages about activities of Philadelphia teams become a valuable directory.

Previous editions have always been oversold. Be on the safe side and order now.

Plank Always in Condition.

The sporting editor of the "Philadedelphia Record" in reviewing the work of the pitchers of the Athletics in last Sunday's issue has the following to say of Eddie Plank:

The many disappointments his numerous pitchers are handing him this season makes the work of Eddie Plank look all the brighter to Connie Mack. The veteran of the squad and a player whom some of the critics have for several seasons been relegating to the "has been" class, Plank keeps right on delivering the goods in masterly style. It was Plank who kept the Athletics out of last place all through the early weeks of the season last year and again it is Plank who is doing most of the winning this year. His left-hand cross-fire is as deadly as of yore and his painstaking methods in preparing for the baseball season leave no cause for such excuses as lack of control and overweight. Plank knew what was coming and prepared to give his best efforts at a time when good work is most needed. Plank blew up in the ninth inning yesterday after having held the White Sox down all through the game. Had any of the other pitchers been in form Mack could have relieved Plank when he saw he was in trouble, but Eddie was left to fight it out alone, with disastrous results. No team can win consistently with poor pitching and lack of effectiveness in the box is proving a severe handicap to the champions. But the pennant race is still very young, and it is altogether too early to worry over the final outcome. Last year Plank pitched a winning game against the Giants at a critical stage in the world's championship struggle, and it is not at all improbable that he will be called upon to repeat next October.

GOOD OLD WORLD, AFTER ALL.

Let the Pessimist Read This and Get into a Better Frame of Mind.

This is a good world. It's growing better every day. We can't say this often enough or strong enough, for it is not only recording a fact but it is getting behind the chariot of progress and giving it a push ourselves.

Rich men's sons are not all "rounders" because a few singe their wings in the white lights. Most of them set about mastering the intricacies of dad's business so they ease his shoulders of some of the strain and get in trim to take it all themselves, some time. Others, still more independent, strike out for themselves.

Rich men's daughters are not all brainless and snobbish and extravagant. For one that runs away with a chauffeur there are thousands who go to college and come out of it noble women.

And the poor do better, with less to help them. Most boys put their necks in the family hearness and help pull with their fathers. It is the girls, however, who pass them in this service If the average girl elects to stay at home—and the one serious point of criticism is that not enough do—she doesn't have to write abroad for advice to ease her mother's grind. And if she goes into shop or office or factory, the mother often gets the sealed pay envelope at the end of the week and doles out the spending money to the girl who earns it. More girls than the world knows about, or, knowing, praises as it should, put aside their chances for a home of their own to keep that of their mother secure

It's a good world and the overwhelming majority of good girls not only help to make it so, but brighten it as well.

ACTOR A MAN OF RESOURCE

Saved Cab Fare and at the Same Time Got Even with Unkind Critic.

District Attorney Jerome of New York was praising at the Union club a resourceful lawyer.

"Get him in a hole," said Mr. Jerome, "and he is out of it the very next second. He is as resourceful as an actor I recently heard about.

"This actor, at two or three o'clock one morning, got in a taxicab to drive home, and when almost there discovered that his money was spent. He had nothing for cab fare.

"A famous physician lived near by, and the resourceful actor told the chauffeur to stop there. Then he jumped out, rang the physician's night bell and screamed up the tube in an agonized voice:

"'Doctor, our baby! It has swallowed its rattle! Quick! I've got a taxicab waiting.'

"'I'll be down at once,' said the doctor.

"And he appeared at once, an overcoat over his pajamas, and a case of instruments under his arm.

"The actor bundled him into the taxicab.

"'To 84 West Steenth street,' he said to the chauffeur. 'I'll go on to the druggist's.'

"And the actor walked off chuckling, for the address he had given was that of an old maid dramatic critic who had dared to roast his last play."

"Lagniappe."

"Lagniappe," a New Orleans custom, dies hard. A year ago the retail grocers of that city agreed that they would refrain from giving a bonus or present to customers, as it was a burden they could not support, but since then some two hundred of the retailers have resumed the practice. The others now say they will boycott the wholesalers who sell to the retailers who have violated the agreement. The seat of the trouble, however, is in the habit of expectation that has long been cultivated in the customers. "Give me my lagniappe," is regarded as a legitimate demand, and the lagniappe is not held to be a gratuity or gift, but a commission earned by the purchaser for having conferred his or her patronage or the patronage of the family the purchaser represents.

Saintly "Guide."

An Englishman having business in a certain Danish town arrived at the railway station. He inquired of a group of men standing near the way to the house he wanted, whereupon one of them offered to go with him and show him. With recollections of what such a service meant in England, he said: "I don't want a guide." "But surely you asked us to show you the way," said one of them. "Yes, but I don't want a guide." "My dear sir, I am not a guide; I am the bishop."

A Home for Spirits.

Andrew Hale, a recluse who recently committed suicide at Lebanon, Ore., had a house to which he had about twenty additions. Each of its small rooms was for the abode of the spirit of a departed friend. The house was filled with curious things, gathered together to amuse the spirits. A lot of shoe strings, several clocks, musical instruments and various articles were there. The collection must have cost Hale more than $2,500.

WITH A HOPE FOR THE BEST

Elevator Man Willing to Concede That Republicans Might Be Saved.

As the elevator ascended in response to Mr. Topfloor's ring on the morning of election day he heard the elevator "boy" humming cheerfully under his breath.

"That's a fine song you are singing, Algernon," he remarked. "It is a hymn?"

"Yessah, dat am a hymn. It 'bout de mos' beautifules' in de hymn book, I t'ink. 'Wot de w'ds?' Dese is de wo'ds," and with appropriate gestures he repated them.

"What were those lines about death, Algernon?" asked Mr. Topfloor. "Say them over." And Algernon, with arms extended and eyes rolled up, recited dramatically: "Oh, L'd, I stretch mah han's to thee. Save me f'om English death."

"'English death!' What's that?" demanded Mr. Torfloor.

"I never could fin' out jet' w'ot dat was, Md. Topfloo', but it means some't'in' raight bad, I reckon. Mebbe it mean de oberlistin' fi'es."

"Maybee it does," agreed Mr. Topfloor, and to change the subject he inquired if Algernon had voted yet.

"Yessah, I voted befo' I come to wu'k dis mornin'. Dis on'y de secon' time in mah life I's voted. De fus' time was las' 'lection day. I made up mah min' den dat it was mah dooty to vote. I owes it to mah wife an' fam'ly. Eve'y one dat knows anyt'in' ought to vote, an' ef yo' has any business or wu'ke at somet'in', de way I does at dis elevator, votin' de bes' way to make you'se'f known to de public. Oh, Ah's a Dem'crat, sah, an' I votes de Dem'crat ticket r-a-i-g-h-t t'ro Dem'crats is de bes'; Republicans dey ain' much good, nohow. Yo'! Is yo a Republican? An' is you' fam'ly Republicans? Well, well—w'ot—doe yo' t'ink o' dat! Yo' cert'ny don' seem like yo was one, sah; nuther do Mis' Topfloo'; an' I reckon dat w'en de good Lo'd come to jedge de Republicans he gwine to make rescrimina tions, so some ob dem will be saved."—New York Press.

Proof Enough.

"The climate of heaven has been determined by two youthful philosophers," announced George Arliss, who is appearing in Disraeli. "While passing along a muddy street the other morning I heard a little chap say to his sister:

"'It don't ever rain in heaven, does it, May?'

"'In course it does, ye little chump!' the girl replied. 'There's where it's all a-comin' from, ain't it?'"

REPORT OF GRAND JURY

To the Honorable Court:

We the Grand Jury, respectfully and unanimously report that we have passed on 18 indictments and found them all true bills. That we visited the jail and find that owing to the easy means of, and frequent escapes from, the jail yard (the prisoners are not allowed the use or freedom of the jail yard That they are confined within the cells and corridor, that the rear door being locked from the outside is a menace to the safety of the prisoners in case of fire. That the sewerage is in a very bad condition, being unsanitary, and that the Jury would recommend that there be a better sewer system installed, that the dwelling part of the jail is in good condition. That we visited the Almshouse in all its departments, and find everything in excellent conditon, being well kept cleanly and healthy, being a credit to the steward and keepers.

TOWER OF ENEMIES' HEADS

Monument of Modern Barbarism Erected by the Turks in 1809 at Nish, Servia.

A strange monument of modern barbarism still survives at Nish in southeast Servia. During the war of independence in 1809 the Servian garrison here exploded a powder magazine and perished therein rather than fall into the hands of the Turks.

A battle had previously taken place and the Turks commemorated their victory by erecting a rude tower, ornamented with the heads of their enemies. Old people will tell you that there were once 1,200 heads, but as the tower was never more than 25 feet high, this is probably an exaggeration.

Lamartine and other travelers relate that they saw hair still clinging to the skulls, which must have formed a grewsome spectacle. During many years visitors were in the habit of carrying off skulls as souvenirs, but when Nish became Servian the remainder were taken away for decent burial, all save a few that were too deeply imbedded. Recently the remains of the tower have been covered over with a roof to protect them against the elements and they are regarded as a pious object of patriotic pilgrimage.—Wide World Magazine.

STONES THAT ARE SOCIABLE

Traveling Pebbles of Nevada When Separated Move Rapidly Toward a Common Center.

"Traveling stones," from the size of a pea to six inches in diameter, are found in Nevada.

When distributed on a floor or other level surface, within two or three feet of one another, they immediately begin to travel toward a common center, and there lie huddled like a clutch of eggs in a nest.

A single stone removed to a distance of three and a half feet, upon being released, at once started with wonderful and somewhat comical celerity to join its fellows.

These queer stones are found in a region that is comparatively level and little more than bare rock. Scattered over this barren region are little basins, from a few feet to a rod or two in diameter, and it is in the bottom of these that the rolling stones are found.

The cause for the strange conduct of these stones is doubtless to be found in the material of which they are composed, which appears to be lodestone or magnetic iron ore.—Harper's Weekly.

Good In Low-Voiced Reply.

We have discovered in our home that if the table talk gets too noisy one of the family may bring the rest to order by speaking in a sudden whisper. Parents often sacrifice much to give their children dancing and music lessons, but the most lovely accomplishment of all, a soft and pleasant-speaking voice, is something they may themselves develop in the children. I find that a child reflects almost instantly the tone of voice of one who speaks to him. A very gentle and low-voiced reply to an excited or angry child reduces his next remark to half in volume. To answer the vexation of a little child in a whisper catches attention, often brings a laugh and is far better than to stamp the fretful tone deeper by mimicking it, as parents sometimes do. Example is better than precept. Parents who have themselves learned self-control, and that it is never necessary to raise one's voice in order to speak with dignity and authority, are teaching their children priceless lessons. That a soft answer turneth away wrath is a cardinal maxim for the household.—Good Housekeeping.

Brer Rabbit, the Hero.

The folklore tales of the south and of the West Indies are often similar, the only difference being in the hero of the plot. Brer Rabbit is the hero of southern folklore tales; Bo Anancy takes the leading part in the West Indian epic. Geographical dissimilarity of origin explains the difference; the rabbit stories are of Congolese or Bantu origin; Anancy stories originated on the gold coast. The rabbit was the totem from which the Bantus were supposed to be descended, while the Tshi-speaking tribes, from whom West Indian negroes trace their descent, had the anancy, or spider, as their totem. In the Anancy stories wild animals have the gift of speech; they converse freely with men and live on easy social terms with them.—Samuel B. Jones, in the Southern Workman.

In the Garden of Eden.

"Did you know this was my birthday?" asked Eve.

"Could I forget it?" answered Adam "Let's see—how old are you, this year—now don't answer—let me guess. Your are—ah—seven!"

"You hateful wretch!" cried Eve. "I'm only five, and you know it.

"But that is just like you men—you try to pretend that the time is dragging and that your wives are growing old! Just because you are over six, and have lots of gray hairs, you think you can insult your wife!"

Eden was never the same after that tiff.

At a Disadvantage.

"I suppose you will miss your boy while he is at college."

"Yep," replied Farmer Corntossel "I dunno what I will do without him He got the live stock so they wouldn't move unless he give 'em the college yell, an' I can't remember it."

CHARACTER DOLL IS LATEST

Each Type Is Made After the Portrait or Photograph of a Real Child.

Perhaps the most interesting feature about the jointed child dolls is the fact that each type is made after the portrait or photograph of a real child, and is often a copy of a living model. One traces the incentive to realism in doll manufacture to a lovely elderly lady in Munich. She is an artist, and one with a deep love for childhood. It seemed to her that when one considered all the passion of love which a doll inspires in the breast of its owner, that little girl ought to have a pet that looked more human than dolls have been wont to look. With this idea she developed, in plaster, dolls that were exact imitations of the various peasant folk who came to Munich from Bavarian and other provinces of a Sunday. The holiday attire of each native village was represented. These delightful little figures of peasant life attracted the attention of the Empress of Germany three years ago—at the time when they first appeared—and she made Christmas presents of them to children of the royal household. She was delighted with the human-looking manikins, and this fact did not take long to spread throughout the Empire and reach the ears of Americans. Now the artist in Munich has several artist assistants to aid her in developing new peasant faces and types, and factories eagerly await models from her studio to dress according to her designs.—Harper's Bazar.

SOME NOVEL FRENCH CANES

Handles of Walking Sticks are Receptacles for Coins, Matches and Other Things.

The ingenuity of the Frenchman has not been confined to the making of weapons out of apparently harmless canes. In fact there is quite a variety of uses which the cane is made to serve.

One of the canes is fitted with a coin box and a match box, these being contained in the head, which is provided with a carefully concealed lid. The coin box is arranged to permit of depositing and easily removing the coin by a slight pressure of the thumb, thus obviating the necessity of fishing for coins in the pocket.

Another cane handle contains a complete outfit of the game known as Petits Chevaux. When the lid is open betting can begin and the horse crossing the wire first wins the stakes. One of the latest Parisian novelties consists in a ladies' parasol handle containing a roulette wheel which can be used for gambling at any place or moment.

These handles have become very popular. They are of fine workmanship and generally of gold or silver.

One handle contains almost everything that one would be likely to need. A long sheet of paper is wound around the rod, from which pieces may be torn off for taking notes. When the lid is opened penknife, pencil, nail file, combs and looking glass are disclosed. These objects are small, but large enough for practical use.—Scientific American.

Smoking in the Dark.

According to experts in the tobacco business the prevailing impression that a man cannot enjoy a smoke in the dark is erroneous. It all depends on the cigar. According to the best authority, sight plays no part in the enjoyment of a smoke, and it is pointed out that blind men are most inveterate smokers; in fact, blind men are expert in telling a good cigar from a poor one, as their sense of smell is so well developed. A New York cigar dealer says that one of his best customers is a blind man and he can tell a good cigar from a bad one by his sense of smell, even when standing a yard or more from his counter.

Most smokers do not like to smoke in the dark. They say it is necessary to watch the smoke ascend and to see the rings curl in order to thoroughly enjoy it, but cigar dealers say the enjoyment is really in the taste and not in the odor, and the sense of taste needs no light to make smoking enjoyable.

About the Putterer.

The art of puttering consists of doing for yourself slowly and inefficiently what you can pay some one else to do for you quickly and well. It is hard work that you do not have to do, strenuous loafing that invites the soul.

The putterer works in pure love, and if the produce prove a poor thing it is at least his own. To be a perfect putterer is to achieve a liberal education.

Puttering is a tonic relaxation from the mechanical efficiency of our professional selves, a corrective of the extreme specialization that otherwise would result in our becoming all foot or hand or head. The putterer makes laws and breaks laws and breaks the laws he makes. He produces startling variations from type. An inspired fool, he is a true creator.—From the Atlantic.

Same Thing.

"And he said he was willing to die for me?"

"No, exactly in those words, but that was the impression he was evidently trying to convey."

"What did he say?"

"He said he was ready to eat your cooking any time you said the word."—Houston Post.

PUTS ALLIGATORS TO SLEEP

Man Declares He Has Peculiar Power Over Saurians, and Apparently Proves It.

Bert Swan is the name of a man who can catch alligators with his hands, turn them on their backs and make them as helpless as infants. The alligators Swan handles are not the giants that bask in the mud of tropical rivers, but they are sufficiently formidable nevertheless.

It is wonderful with what quickness these saurians can snap at a man. Swan gave a little session with his pets for the benefit of a correspondent of St. Nicholas and this quickness of action on the part of the alligators was fully demonstrated before the little private performance ended.

The first task was to get the alligator into the open where the light was sufficiently good to permit of snapshots. This was done by two men grasping the alligator, one seizing his jaws with a lightning movement and the other grabbing his wildly waving tail.

In the open the alligator proved as wicked as could have been wished. Swan's method of catching him was to hold the hands in readiness and wait for a favorable chance to grab the upper and lower jaws. As this was done while the formidable rows of teeth were apparently aching for a chance to snap the man's arm, it was no simple matter to catch the jaws and imprison them.

Swan waited a long time before he saw his chance and the eye could scarcely follow the movement of his hands as they were darted toward the outstretched jaws. Once the jaws were closed in the man's vise-like grip it was a simple matter to slip one hand under the snout, seize one of the clawing legs with the other and turn the alligator on his back.

The owner of the alligator says he has found a way to hypnotize the creatures. Be that as it may, it is true that he made the wicked little saurian lie perfectly still for as long a time as he wished and then raised him in his arms and carried him around like a baby, the animal being apparently sound asleep all the time. When Swan put him down and touched his throat with a finger he awoke once more into vicious life and began snapping as before.

The alligator cannot move very quickly on his legs and it is easy enough to avoid him when he comes at you, but to try and pinion his jaws is another matter and a task that no one would care to try unless gifted with lightning-like agility and the quickest of eyes, as well as with muscular hands.

Peary Relics.

A Houlton merchant is displaying in his show window the following articles, which were sent him by Chief Engineer Wardwell of the Roosevelt, Peary's arctic ship: A pair of Eskimo trousers, a sealskin hood, a blue fox tail, a woman's necklace, several images carved from walrus ivory, a sealskin coat, an Eskimo doll, tobacco pouch made by the natives of Greenland, a pair of sealskin boots, a bunch of sinews used to sew clothing in the far north, a pair of walrus tusks, the horn of a narwhal, the skins of seals and of a musk ox calf, a piece of beryl from the northern part of Grant Land and a crystal from Cape Sheridan, which is 82 degrees 27 minutes north. Mr. Wardwell is a Bucksport man.—Kennebec Journal.

"Paying the Groom's Debts."

"It is understood from members of the family of Count Sigray, who married Miss Harriet Daly, daughter of the late Marcus Daly, that the bride's dower was $6,000.000. Of this amount, however, only $600,000 will be immediately at the disposal of the bridegroom; that sum to be applied to the settlement of the count's debts. The comfortable balance of $5,400,00 remains an American investment from which the young couple are to draw the interest."

So runs a recent society note in a New York paper, and the shame of the happening is so common that it excited no comment, nothwithstanding its affront to the dignity and sanctity of marriage and the low standard of both manhood and womanhood which it implies.—Cleveland Leader.

New Idea in Shopping.

"I can stand for some things, but not everything," said the clerk as he watched a stylishly dressed young woman leave the store.

"What is the matter?" asked the proprietor, who had walked up unobserved.

"That woman who just left hustled up to the counter and asked to see men's shirts. I spent 20 minutes showing her every style and color we carry. After inspecting the entire stock she rose and thanked me sweetly, adding: 'I didn't wish to purchase any. You see I am making my husband some summer shirts and I wanted to be sure I was doing them right. My husband is very particular about the finish of his shirts.' And they say married women are so considerate."

The boss smiled and walked away.

The presence of Rev. J. J. Hill of Littlestown, and Rev. Frank Taylor was appreciated by the ladies for their helpful and encouraging remarks

The county president, Miss Annie Sheely of Arendtsville conducted the meeting with ease and grace. A symposium on methods of extending the influence of our organizations, gave a number of good suggestions. Notably through the schools, original essays, oratorical contests, mothers' meetings, the press and flower mission work. Talks on the latter showed that it meant much more than sending flowers to Christians and could be made to embrace a wide field of mercy and help. Reports of best work done by unions throughout the county included increase of membership, prison work, and new developments of work in several departments. The music in charge of the music committee was inspiring. Mrs. Joseph Baker delighted with a piano solo and Miss Ruth Hmes of New Oxford sang very sweetly "The Time of the Roses." It was thought desirable to hold the annual convention earlier than usual, in June, and if possible at New Oxford.

Wait Paint.

There are painters and waiters. Which am I going to do? Paint or wait? Which is better? How much am I worth with my property waiting? How much if I paint? Will my house be worth more or less if I paint?

Say it costs $2.25 a gallon Devoe—I wouldn't paint any other—and $3 or $4 more for putting it on. That's $50 or $60 a 10-gallon job.

The money is gone. Is it in the house? Is it all in the house?

Suppose I were selling; what should I get for that house fresh-painted and what should I get for it needing paint?

I wonder why men paint before selling!

DEVOE

Thos. J. Winebrenner sells it.

"I am a clergyman and G. A. R. veteran. I thank God that I went five miles to the Binghamton CanCerium and Sanitarium. I had 3 cancers on cheek and lip, one of 15 years duration. Other cancer doctors failed. My face is well. Scars hardly noticeable. A wonderful cure without knife or loss of blood under Dr. S. Andral Kilmer's De-Cancerizing system. My age was 67. I saw ladies being treated for cancers as large as saucers, who went away rejoicing. Send for Dr. S. Andral Kilmer's Red Book and see my picture and report. Gratitude and a desire to be of benefit to sufferers, impel me to state this for the public good."
